Brian Ager joins Ellwood Atfield as Senior Advisor

Ellwood Atfield is pleased to announce that Brian Ager will join the company in Brussels in a Senior Advisor capacity. He will join the communications and advocacy headhunter to help deliver new and improved services to the communications, corporate affairs and advocacy functions.

Brian Ager served as the Secretary General of the European Round Table of Industrialists, a forum bringing together CEOs and Chairmen of major European multinationals from 2011 until 1 February 2019. He was previously the Director General of the European Federation of Pharmaceutical Industries and Associations (EFPIA) from 1995 to 2011.

Mark Dober, Managing Director of Ellwood Atfield Brussels says, “We are delighted that Brian is joining our senior Brussels team which already includes four former business leaders. I have had the pleasure of knowing and working with Brian for 15 years, and am certain his insights, intellect and network will add real value to our work.”

Brian Ager says, “Ellwood Atfield is the go-to Brussels headhunter, and I look forward to bringing my recruitment and association leadership experience to their business. In parallel, I will also serve as Senior Adviser to Ellwood Atfield’s law firm client Covington & Burling.”
